About the CAF

Formed in 1957, the Commemorative Air Force (“CAF”) has been collecting, restoring and flying World War II aircraft for 60 years.

A non-profit organization, the CAF is the world’s largest flying museum with more than 11,000 members and a fleet of more than 160 airplanes. Most of the aircraft are kept in flying condition, enabling millions of Americans each year to experience the sight and sound of vintage military aircraft in flight.

The CAF relies on thousands of volunteers to keep these incredible planes flying in honor of the men and women who built, flew, and maintained them in WWII. The organization flies its aircraft not only for purposes of remembrance, but to share the stories, values and spirit of the past to inspire future generations of Americans.

In 2015, the organization moved its national headquarters to Dallas Executive Airport from Midland, TX. Ambitious plans are in place to construct a world-class museum and education center that will play a significant role in the economic and cultural revitalization of southern Dallas. It is scheduled to open in 2020.

Fact Sheet

Until 2016, Dallas was the largest city in America without an annual air show. This changed when the Commemorative Air Force hosted its first annual Wings Over Dallas WWII Airshow over a three day weekend in late October 2016.

Featuring dozens of historic aircraft and a Pearl Harbor 75th anniversary re-enactment, the event was a resounding success with more than 19,000 people in attendance, including visitors from 31 states and over 50 WWII veterans.
